

How do you protect the landscaping from paint and painters?

For plants and bushes, it is essential to use lightweight dropcloths but to remove them each afternoon. Saw horses can be used to prevent dropcloths from crushing extremely fragile plants. Painters need to be trained in the use of ladders and their placement to avoid damaging flowers and shrubs. It is always best to have the landscaper cut back bushes and trees prior to painting.